Is Life Worth Living?

That depends upon the Liver. If the Liver is inactive the whole system is out of order—the breath is bad, digestion poor, head dull or aching, energy and hopefulness gone, the spirit is depressed, a heavy weight exists after eating, with general despondency and the blues. The Liver is the housekeeper of the health; and a harmless, simple remedy—that acts like Nature, does not constipate afterwards or require constant taking, does not interfere with business or pleasure during its use, makes Simmons Liver Regulator a medical perfection.

I have tested its virtues personally, and know that for Dyspepsia, Biliousness and Throbbing Headache, it is the best medicine the world ever saw. Have tried forty other remedies before Simmons Liver Regulator, and none of them gave more than temporary relief, but the Regulator not only relieved but cured.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

SEASONABLE HINTS ON PREPARING GOOD PICNIC LUNCHEONS.

To Aid Working Women—The Belle of the Border—Commencement Reflections—Women in Belgium—Mrs. Hendricks—A Woman Attorney in Court.

An excellent picnic lunch may be arranged as follows:
Meat for sandwiches should be boiled the day before; then after removing bones, skin and ligaments they should be put in a cool place over night. Cut in very thin slices.

Bread one day old is best, and a very sharp knife is needed for cutting it into thin slices not over three inches square. These, buttered slightly, may be daintily filled with ham, salad, sardines, tongue or whatever one likes.

Then cut pieces of confectioners' paper just large enough to cover the sandwiches neatly. Place them side by side, closely packed, and they will preserve their shape without breaking. The paper is not to be removed until served.

Cakes must also be one day old, and for picnic use a little extra flour in stirring and an extra five or ten minutes in baking will insure a firmer crust. Frosting, if put on hot, does not crack and fall off. Cookies are more desirable than loaf cake, as are also cup and gem cakes. Jelly and cream confections are seldom nice for picnic serving.

Pies made of jellies, fruit or sweets are best cooked turnover fashion, the pastry covering the filling entirely. Lay them in paper covers and they serve thus very conveniently.

Lemon, orange, strawberry, raspberry or currant juices should be extracted, then sweetened, and when well dissolved, bottled. Drinks can then be prepared by adding two tablespoonfuls of the liquid to a tumbler of ice water. All these juices combined make a delicious drink.

Strong coffee or tea may also be prepared and served in the same way. Bright tin mugs are more convenient than tumblers, and there is no danger of breakage.

Hampers, with several trays, are more desirable for packing. Ordinary lunch baskets are a difficulty. White confectioners' paper should be used for lining the basket and for separating the different kinds of food; also for covering neatly individual pieces. Cookies and crackers must be put in tight boxes. Plates are too heavy, but bright, new biscuit tins—the square shapes are best—are very useful in packing, and with fringed napkins laid inside they serve well for salvers in handing the food around. Paper napkins are best.

Whatever is to be eaten last should be packed at the bottom of the hamper, and that to be served first at the top. Pickles, olives and cheese must not be forgotten.—Mrs. A. G. Lewis in Ladies' Home Journal.

To Aid Working Women.

In a recent sermon Rev. Madison C. Peters, of New York, spoke as follows: There are 250,000 women in New York city, exclusive of the domestic service, who are breadwinners, who have no male protectors and no means of support other than their own efforts. Though there are 343 trades open to them, an advertisement for one worker often brings a hundred applicants. Many of them are obliged to accept whatever wages are offered to them. There are trained seamstresses who work for 25 cents. Boys' knee pants bring 35 cents a dozen, trousers from 12½ to 25 cents and shirts from 6½ to 12½ cents. To work as prisoners for crime would be a respite to many of them. The injustice, the oppression and the suffering of these 250,000! What a theme for the reformer or the novelist! These starvation wages! The shopgirl's weary hours of standing after she is through the thousand demands made upon her! Such inhumanity! Woman has as much right to her bread as man has. Pay women the same as men for the same work if they do it equally well. The remedies I would suggest are:

First—Let every woman learn to do some one thing. Unskilled labor must take what is given.

Second—Never slight your work. The disparity between men's wages and women's is largely due to difference in the grade of work. Show the same determination to reach the top that male workers do.

Third—Train our women for housework. This is the solution of the question for the women who cannot earn a living at sewing or in the factory. There is nothing menial in the common work of the house.

Fourth—Let our storekeepers and manufacturers be given distinctly to understand that the low wages they pay contribute more to the social evil than all other causes combined.

Fifth—Let woman cease her inhumanity to woman. Women oppress women as much as men. They beat down to the lowest figure the woman who works for them, and the next minute spend ten times as much on the finical fooleries of fashion.

Sixth—Show the shopgirls and sewing women more sympathy. Do what you can to cheer the women who have to fight the battles of life alone.

The Belle of the Border.

For years to come the war between the cattlemen and rustlers will be a fruitful theme for story writers.

When the avenging army of cattlemen came across the border there was one man who was especially wanted, as he was supposed not only to be the head of the rustler organization, but his house was the headquarters of all the men who were known as being opposed to the big cattlemen who owned stock by the thousands. This rancher was especially favored by the cowboys on account of the presence of a daughter of Harvey Williams, the owner. She was the belle of the border, and her nerve and daring many times put to shame the cowboys who shirked duty or trouble on a bad night. She had only to say go, and all would go victoriously with each other in their efforts to win smiles from the queen of the prairies.

When the invading band came into the country Harvey heard of it, and as he was unable to get his family away before they came down upon him, he barricaded his home and determined to fight it out, hoping for the arrival of some of the cowboys from the range to help him out. His daughter Sallie said that she would soon bring the boys, and despite the pleading of her parents she slipped into the stable, and before the invaders were fully aware of what she had done she was on the back of one of the fastest horses in the country and flying away to where she knew a number of cowboys were camped.

Futile pursuit was made by the cattlemen, and they could have as easily caught the wind. When the pursuers saw her heading for the cowboys' camp they realized she had gone for reinforcements and hastily beat a retreat and called off the besieging force, as they could not risk a battle at that time. To the shame of the invading cattlemen, it is told that they fired several shots at the flying girl, two bullets striking her clothing and one wounding her horse in the hip slightly.—Cor. Philadelphia Press.

Commencement Reflections.

Carriages with their loads of pretty white gown girls from now on will be seen dashing through the streets carrying the graduates to or from the place where their commencement exercises are to be held. Happy parents will smile as they listen to the compliments and watch the bestowal of prizes on their bright young daughters. Friends will applaud and teachers praise her. And what of the daughter herself? It will be a gala day, indeed, for her. Our own graduation is not so far back in the dim past that we cannot remember the thrill of pride when we were given the white diploma that signified that we had satisfactorily completed our studies and the school days were at last over.

As we rode through the streets in all the prettiness of white lace and ribbon we felt the eyes of the world upon us. And then the applause at the graduation and the group of waiting children to see us pass out with the bouquets and baskets of flowers, the worry of examination all over and the long summer of life opening out before us! It has not all been the untroubled calm that we anticipated. Summer has given place to winter, storm and shower have been more frequent than sunshine, but out of the clouds there stands forth that one day when in reality we commence to live.

Ah, if we could but go back! Mother was there sitting on the platform, the most pleased of all. Father looked so happy as he listened to the girlish voice read the abstract essay on a topic not nearly so mystifying as the new paths the little feet so soon would tread.

There were our girlhood friends, and now where are they all? Father and mother gone to that land from which no traveler ever returns; friends scattered to the four corners of the globe, and we older, wiser and humbler than in that time gone by when every bud and every leaf cried out for joy. "This is your commencement day,"—Philadelphia Times.

Wide Awake Women in Belgium.

The little kingdom of Belgium is just now passing through a period of political and social revolution which, although peaceful, is uncommonly intense and exciting. It is the same restless spirit of reformation which has just caused a league of the rights of woman to be established. Two female doctors, Miss Marie Popelin, a lawyer, and Miss Van Diest, a medical practitioner, a journalist called Mademoiselle Convent, and two other girls not distinguished by any title or profession, Misses Anna Boch and Gatti de Gamond, from the central committee at Brussels, which has been joined by two male lawyers, Louis Frank and Henri Lafontaine.

The league claims all the rights demanded by the various women's societies of America, and intends pushing them by arranging meetings of women all over the country, founding a woman's rights publishing company and periodical, establishing agencies for female labor in every branch, collecting a woman's library limited to works upon the emancipation of women, bringing about a universal federation of all interested in the cause. The working committee has laid out work for five sub-committees—for education, for participation in the labors of public and private charities, and in the struggle against drink, war, immorality and gambling, for unrestricted admission to trades and professions, equality of woman's wages with those paid to men and for female trades unions, for legislation establishing equality of male and female before the law, and, lastly, for propaganda, library publications, conferences, etc.—Chicago Herald.

The first ladies' bicycle club in Sweden has just been formed, with a membership of sixteen.

TELLER REPUDIATED.

Senator Teller's insincerity has been exposed and his course severely rebuked in Colorado. During the present Administration he has been recognized as one of the leading champions of silver in Congress. He seemed to place the interests of his State above the success of party, and on several occasions in and out of the Senate referred to President Harrison as an enemy of remonetization. That, however, was before Mr. Harrison's renomination. Since then, as though the endorsement of the Minneapolis Convention absolved Mr. Harrison from every sin of omission or commission against silver, Mr. Teller has endeavored to retract all that he had said against President Harrison and apologized for what he cannot retract. He fancied that the people, as he thought, placed party success above State prosperity and that they would fall into line and support Harrison as the nominee of the Republican party, notwithstanding the party refused to put a free coinage plank in its platform. He failed to discern that the people had emerged from the fog of party prejudice this year and were observing impartially but very distinctly the current of political events, especially where the silver question was involved. He knew that they organized in Colorado to make war against the enemies of silver, but he did not suspect that they had also divested themselves of partisan prejudices and were arrayed side by side making common cause against a common enemy.

The representatives of these men to the number of 500 met in convention in Denver. Mr. Teller, who, for the sake of controlling the Federal funds in Colorado, deserted the silver cause, desired to address the convention, but, though it was composed of a majority of Republicans, it refused to hear him. He was looked upon as a traitor to the cause, and the opinion was unanimous that a man, who advocates the election of Harrison or Cleveland, would be as much out of place in a Free Coinage Convention as Bob Ingersoll would be in the general synod of the Presbyterian Church. They refused to hear him and the man who, two months ago, would have received for President the vote of every silver man in the United States, was repudiated by a convention assembled in his own State to devise means to further the cause of remonetization. They would not countenance treachery, double-dealing and inconsistency by letting Mr. Teller speak before them. They desired him to understand that the movement of the people was greater than any man or dozen men, including United States Senators, in the State of Colorado.

Commenting on this condition of affairs the Denver News, which is the ablest advocate of silver in the United States, and which upheld the Senator while he upheld the interests of the State says:

"The convention was composed largely of Republicans, more than one-half its members were Republicans, or are such to-day except those that have repudiated Harrison on account of his silver policy. What they did was on the impulse of the moment. They had no time to think. The request was preferred without warning, and the negative response came so quick and overpowering that there was no time for a second to be made in support of the request."

"The reason is very evident to anyone who understands the intensity of Colorado's feeling upon the silver question. Seventy-five per cent of the people believe that Senator Teller has stultified himself in advising Republicans to support Mr. Harrison. They felt in the convention that he was doing them and the cause for which they met a grave injustice, to seek to be heard to induce them to forego the work his speeches and letters were mainly instrumental in setting them about."

"A man is but an atom in a great movement. He may unloose the winds that set it in motion, but the storm once aroused cannot be stayed by myriads of hands. Senator Teller must know, after the event of yesterday, that great and popular as he is, the people are greater and do their own thinking and reach quick and accurate conclusions about the public conduct of their servants."

SILVER MEN NOT PARTISANS.

What the people of Nevada want in both Houses of Congress is not Republicans and Democrats but silver men, who will place the remonetization of silver above the success of any party. Men should be elected to Congress upon the same lines as Presidential electors, not as partisans, but as silver men. Mr. Newlands, we believe, stated in the Helena Mining Congress, that the balance of power in Congress was equivalent to a majority. In the next Congress, unless the signs of the times are misinterpreted, the silver men will hold the balance of power. In such an event, Mr. Newlands, who is a candidate for Congress, could, if chosen for the position, do more for remonetization as a silver man than as a Republican or a Democrat, as he would be untrammelled by party shackles, and would be free to make the best possible terms for the interests of his constituents.

On this subject the Silver State remarks: "The people of Nevada propose to and will send Senator Stewart to the Senate without distinction of party, so that he can say to the powers that be at Washington: 'I am sent here by the people of my State to battle for silver, not as a Republican, not as a political partisan, but as an independent Senator, representing an independent sovereign State, which knows its rights and dares maintain them, regardless of the consequences to either of the old parties.'"

"The people of Nevada want to send a Congressman there on the same layout and propose to do it."

SILVER BEFORE PARTY.

George W. Baker, of the firm of Baker, Winsor and Dorsey is one of the most enthusiastic and consistent silver men on the Coast. He left the Democratic party because of Cleveland's hostility to silver and voted for Harrison hoping he would do better. In that he has been disappointed and he now joins in the silver movement and becomes a member of the Washoe Silver League. He says no sincere advocate of free coinage can vote for Cleveland or Harrison as they are both controlled by Wall Street and stand on platforms which are avowedly hostile to silver.

Mr. Baker was a recognized leader in Republican councils four years ago, and as a member of the Committee on Platform framed the plank declaring for the Australian ballot law. He proves his sincerity and shows his determination to be consistent on the silver question, by repudiating both the old parties.

You can't shout against Harrison in Washington and for him in Nevada and receive the support of the Silver party. Don't forget that—Silver State.

WOODS ELECTROCUTED.

DANMORA, N. Y., August 2.—At 10:50 this morning the murderer of Joseph Wood was led into the death chamber, and the condemned man's face was pale, but he permitted no other outward sign of emotion. When he reached the chair, the prisoner made a few remarks, thanking the Warden and other officers for their kindness to him. As the contact came, Wood's body straightened out rigidly and his hands turned upward on the arms of the chair. Twelve seconds was the duration of the first contact. The second was two seconds shorter, and as it reached the full power a curl of blue smoke arose from the murderer's forehead, and the odor of burned rubber filled the room. This was repeated in the third and fourth contacts of six seconds each. Woods was in the chair one minute and fourteen seconds. There was a slight blurring of the flesh on the forehead. The execution was successful.

A Fatal Shooting Affray.

PHOENIX, Arizona, August 2.—Tom Graham was shot and killed to-day by Ed Tewsbury. Both are well known citizens, Graham being a cattleman and Tewsbury a sheepman. The shooting occurred near Graham's ranch, a short distance from Tempe, as Graham was going to Tempe with a load of grain. Tewsbury, who lives in Tonto Basin, spent last night in Tempe and rode out to meet Graham. The shooting is the result of a family feud of five years standing, during which time twenty-seven men have been killed on Graham's side and fourteen on Tewsbury's. Graham was the last one of four brothers, all killed, and Tewsbury the last of six. A posse of officers and citizens are in pursuit of Tewsbury, who will be lynched if caught. He passed through Mesa City and took to the desert. He is mounted on a thoroughbred horse, and it is thought has a relay of horses to Tonto Basin.

The Cour d'Alene Contempt Cases.

BOISE, Idaho, August 2.—In the contempt cases against the Cour d'Alene rioters the defense to-day filed a general demurrer and plea in the abatement, which was taken under advisement by United States District Judge Beatty. The plea in the abatement alleges that six of the defendants are not citizens of the United States, that two are citizens of the State of Washington and one of the State of Montana. The plea further alleges that the Cour d'Alene Miners Union had never been incorporated in the State of Idaho. It is therefore claimed that the actions out of which the proceedings grew is not the action between citizens of different States such as a Federal Court can exercise jurisdiction over.

Harvard Examination.

Harvard University is spreading her net over a very wide extent of territory to-day. It is announced that examinations for admission to that institution are to be held simultaneously in no less than twenty-five places, including England, Germany and Japan. It looks as if Harvard wanted the earth and was in a fair way to get a large section of it.—Boston Herald.

McKinley Speaks for Protection.

BRATTLEBORO, Neb., August 2.—Fifteen thousand people at the Chautauquagrounds this afternoon listened to a stirring address by Governor McKinley of Ohio. Special trains this morning brought in throngs of people from Kansas, Iowa and Missouri to hear the great protectionist. Business was almost suspended and everybody witnessed an immense procession, which preceded the Governor's speech. All along the line of march buildings were decorated and the parade and demonstration was the most elaborate ever held in the State.

He said in beginning that the latest national Democratic platform is a bolder recognition of free trade than any of its predecessors, and analyzed it at length, quoting points reported by the committee and stricken out before the platform was finally adopted.

As to the charge that protective tariff is unconstitutional, the Governor said its constitutionality has not been seriously questioned in more than a hundred years. The policy was recognized in the second Act ever passed by the Congress of the United States, a Congress participated in by many framers of the Constitution. If the protective policy was a violation of any constitution it was not that of the United States. It is a manifest violation of the Constitution of the Confederate States. Possibly that is what they mean. Happily, however, we do not recognize that instrument, and never did, and we are not operating under it.

The protective tariff has cheapened every manufactured product. Substantially everything which protection directly affects has been reduced in price, except labor. Under the new tariff old industries have been stimulated and many new industries started which, it is now estimated, give employment to from 200,000 to 250,000 persons, and it is a fact well established by reports from all foreign countries that, at this time, while there is depression and anxiety in their industries there is prosperity in the United States alone, notwithstanding the cry that under protective tariff we cannot sell abroad as we do not buy abroad. Yet, during the last fiscal year we sold abroad nearly $203,000,000 more than we bought abroad. This was an excess in our favor which foreigners paid to us and which we have at home circulating among our people. The report of the Treasury Department shows that dutiable merchandise has decreased under the operation of the new law of over $109,000,000. The free list in the same time increased $91,759,793, more than half the value of all our products absolutely free. The value of our export merchandise during the last fiscal year was $1,030,335,626, an increase of $143,854,816 over the previous year, a wonderful increase in our foreign trade under the law which was to close foreign markets to us. Our exports never before reached that point in a given year in all our history.

McKinley quoted figures to show that under free trade the revenue tariff from 1847 to 1861 the balance of trade against us was more than $431,000,000. In fifteen years from 1876 to 1891 with protection the balance of trade in favor was our $1,649,445,216.

The Governor argued at length in refutation of the Democratic assertion that the farmer would be benefited by a revenue tariff, and said protection was a positive benefit to the farmers of this country, that no class of citizens were more certainly advantaged by it. What the farmers want is consumers, and the more consumers and fewer competitors he has the better it is. He wants those consumers steady and regular, and has such in the 65,000,000 of consumers in this country, who are the best and most profitable consumers on the globe. Democratic leaders of to-day, said the Governor, seem to think there is some peculiar sanctity about the foreign consumer that doesn't attach to the domestic. I don't, I prefer the domestic consumer because he is the best; he consumes more and has more money to pay for his living than any other consumer in the world. Every new industry increases the farmer's home market and furnishes him with what he most wants, profitable customers. The new tariff law was framed to give farmers a market and to encourage industries which would increase consumers by increasing factories and a demand for labor therein.

McKinley continued: "We cannot have free trade in this country without having free trade conditions. The Democratic platform demands it upon these conditions and is bound to have it at any cost. The world knows what these conditions are."

The farmers and workingmen of England know what they are. Thousands of men who work on both sides of the ocean and under both systems know these conditions. To introduce them here will bring widespread discontent and revolutionize values. Cleveland joined the choir of calamity in his speech of acceptance. I fear," said the speaker, "that he has not consulted the markets since 1890. He had in mind the campaign prices then prevailing, and seems to have been unadvised of what had occurred since. He had not then read the report of the Senate Committee appointed to investigate the effect of the new tariff law upon the consumer and producer and the wages of labor."

This report was unanimous, and, McKinley asserted, showed a decline in the retail price of 214 selected articles of comfort and necessity. The report shows in every part, he said, the constant tendency to lower the prices of the necessities of life and its comforts. The report also shows that while the cost of living has decreased here, it has, during the same period in England, increased. As to wages, it appears that the wages in the special industries selected, averaged in the United States 77 per cent greater than in Great Britain, which is under a Democratic free trade revenue tariff.

The Last Acts of Respect.

CANSON, August 2.—To-day the remains of Samuel Coleman Wright, late Superintendent of the Carson Mint, were escorted to the train by the militia, Masonic fraternity, employees of the Mint and citizens. The body will be taken to Sacramento for interment, accompanied by an escort.

Burke Brothers are making rapid headway with the foundation walls of the new bank building. Nothing but the best of material is being used, and the work is being done by those gentlemen in a manner that will commend itself to anyone who is desirous of having work done in their line.

Peculiar

Many peculiar points make Hood's Sarsaparilla superior to all other medicines. Peculiar in combination, proportion, and preparation of ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses the full curative value of the best known remedies of the vegetable kingdom. Peculiar in its strength and economy—Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine which can truly be said to "One Hundred Dollars' worth of medicine in a bottle." Medicines in larger and smaller bottles require larger doses, and do not produce as good results as Hood's. Peculiar in its medicinal merits, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures hitherto unknown, and has won for itself the title of "The greatest blood purifier ever discovered."

Peculiar in its "goodname at home"—there is now more sold in Lowell, where it is made, than of all other blood purifiers. Peculiar in its phenomenal record of sales abroad, has no other preparation ever attained such popularity in so short a time, and retained its popularity and confidence among all classes of people so steadfastly. Do not be induced to buy other preparations, but be sure to get the Peculiar Medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla. Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. The remains were accompanied as far as Reno by Coiner Charles Colburn, Melter and Refiner Parker, Assayer P. B. Ellis and several other attaches of the Mint. The remains were accompanied below by Mrs. S. O. Wright and children, J. M. Rhodes, father-in-law of deceased, Mrs. Allen C. Bragg, Mrs. Wright's sister, and others. The funeral will be conducted under the auspices of the Knights Templar.

A FOOLHARDY YOUTH.
Unsuccessful Attempt to Hold Up Superintendent Kinkadee of the Occidental
—The Highwayman in Jail
This afternoon J. H. Kinkadee, Superintendent of the Occidental mine, says the Virginia Chronicle, left town in a buggy, having on board $10,000 in coin with which to pay the employees at the mine. The team was driven by a man hired for the occasion, while Kinkadee sat with a shotgun on a rear seat of the vehicle to guard the treasure.
While on the road to the mine between the Ward shaft and the Occidental mill a man stepped out from the brush, pistol in hand, and demanded a halt. Instead of complying with the highwayman's demand Kinkadee leveled the gun and blazed away, filling the right arm of the man in the brush with buckshot. After being shot the would-be highwayman threw the "pepper-box" he had away, when the Superintendent commanded him to get in the buggy, and the culprit was brought back to town and delivered up to the Sheriff. After disposing of his prisoner Mr. Kinkadee departed for the Occidental again with the coin to pay the employees of the mine.
The foolhardy person who attempted the robbery proves to a young man named Van Hurd, a stepson of Wm. Vardy. A Chronicle reporter interviewed the prisoner after he had been placed in the hands of the Sheriff.
He stated that he had been employed at the Occidental mine, and came off shift at 5 a. m., and had a month's pay coming. Instead of going to bed upon coming off shift, he got to drinking and continued all morning. Knowing Kinkadee would leave with money to pay the mine employees, he conceived an insane idea that instead of his paltry pittance he could secure the entire sack. "I went out while drunk," said he, "while crazy from drink, with a wooden gun; but Kinkadee had an iron one. It would have been better had I got shot in the head."
Dr. Harris examined the wounds in the arm and found that three buckshot had entered near the elbow, but all had passed through the flesh. Though the injury is painful, it is not serious, as no bones are broken.
The young man's foolish freak can be laid to drink. He had his face blackened at the time of the attempted robbery and consequently was unknown to Kinkadee at the time, but it is doubtful whether the shooter intended to do him any great injury. Hurd is a young married man, and therefore has been respected in the community. His wife became a mother but a week ago. It is to be deplored that he has committed the rash act.

New Creamery Incorporation.
A new incorporation was formed in Carson yesterday, says the Tribune, called the California and Nevada Creamery Company, with a capital stock of $250,000, with stock at $1 a share. It is a consolidation of the Nevada Creamery and Commercial Company, the California Creamery Company and the commission house of Hegler, Johnson & Co., 111 Front street, San Francisco. The purpose of the consolidation is to extend the field of operation for the creamery business. Evan Williams, President; R. K. Colored, Vice President; T. R. Hofer, Secretary; Trustees, J. B. Laws, J. C. Kaapisch, J. R. Judge, J. C. Kirkpatrick of California, Evan Williams, R. K. Colored and T. R. Hofer.
The Mint Superintendent.
The wires were kept busy yesterday by applicants for the Mint Superintendency. Among the most prominently mentioned for the place made vacant by the death of Mr. Wright are T. R. Hofer and ex-Governor Kinkadee of this city and Senator Danlop of Virginia. The general impression is that T. R. Hofer will secure the prize. No man in the State is so thoroughly equipped or better qualified for the position.—Carson Tribune.

A Political Conundrum.
If a vote for Weaver is a vote for Cleveland and has no other significance to the voters of Nevada and elsewhere, why are the few bona fide Cleveland men, including the present faber pusher of the Wall Street organ, unalterably opposed to the candidacy of General Weaver and desirous of discouraging the movement in his behalf?
W. R. Chamberlain of the Riverside Hotel yesterday received a telegram from Jerry Whitehead to prepare breakfast for 150 Knights, who are on their way to Denver to attend the Conclave. Owing to the limited time allowed by the stoppage of the train Mr. Chamberlain found it impossible to accommodate more than 50 at the Riverside and accommodations were secured for the rest at the Palace and Arcade.

English and American Land Owners.
There is a constant feud between the suburban residents and the Sunday excursionists. The suburban resident goes to New York in the morning and goes back in the afternoon, except on Sunday, when he stays at home. It would suit him if the Sunday train service were almost entirely stopped, except one morning train out into the country and one evening train back to let his personal friends go out and spend the day with him. The Sunday excursionist represents to him a concentration of the destructive forces of mankind, so he goes to Tuxedo or Wave Crest or some reservation where excursionists are not permitted to go, and when he gets rich enough he builds a place in the midst of grounds wide enough to hide him from the road, and puts out watchmen to prevent people he does not want from coming in and tramping on the grass.
This is more an American than an English feeling. In England almost all of the show country places are open to visitors under restrictions which are generally observed. It would be regarded as an improper and unsocial thing for an Englishman with a fine country place to drive people off the grounds. Instead of that he welcomes visitors and provides guides to take them around and look after them.—New York Sun.

Big Prices for Old Toys.
Old toys so very seldom survive the rough work which their possessors give them that if by any chance they do survive the thestom they become extremely valuable. A collection of old playthings, many of which belonged to royal children, has just been sold at the Hotel Drouot, and some of the articles fetched prices which even their artistic merit and their strange survival of the vicissitudes would hardly have seemed to merit. For instance, a little doll, rather less than a foot high, but clad in a parody of steel, "armed at all points exactly cap-a-pie," but perfectly modeled in wood and even this price was eclipsed by that given for a tiny set of carriages carved in wood and accompanied by little wooden soldiers, made not console planco, but when Napoleon was first consul, which brought in nearly 1,000 francs. A miniature kitchen, interesting as being an exact model of that useful household apartment, tempo Louis XVI, and a little jointed doll, sixteen inches high, dressed in a broche silk Watteau dress, fetched 340 francs and 110 francs respectively. Many other toys belonging to bygone epochs sold at almost fancy prices.—Galignani Messenger.

Rat Exterminators.
An old trapper has been bringing from the mountains for two weeks a number of peculiar little animals that have puzzled a good many people to tell what they were. They are about the size of a common cat and have large bushy tails like that of the raccoon. Their bodies are long and slender and well protected with a thick growth of brownish coloring hair. Their eyes are black and snapping and when teased they growl and spit like a cat, showing a row of teeth as sharp as cambric needles. The name of these little animals is the Bassaris, and they are a species of the civet cat, ranking between the fox and the weasel. They are better than all the pussies in creation as rat exterminators, and about twenty of them have been turned loose in different warehouses and livery stables in this city.—San Francisco Call.

Racing on Wooden Legs.
A race on wooden legs from Bordeaux to Biarritz and back, a distance of 303 miles, was begun yesterday. Eighty-one stilt runners entered for this race left the Hotel de la Gironde at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, being "played off" by a brass band. They were accompanied by a party of bicyclists, whose duty was to see that fair play was observed. Among Sylvain Dornon, who traveled on stilts, or claimed to have done so, from Paris to Moscow.
A quarter of an hour after the stilt racers had set out from Bordeaux a party of eighteen women and young girls, also mounted on stilts, left Bordeaux for Cerans, having undertaken to run there and back, a distance of fifty miles, in the day.—London News.

Hydrophobia and the Dog Catchers.
A great deal of rot about hydrophobia is being printed in the newspapers just now. It is done, we suppose, in order not so much to scare people into having their pet dogs licensed and muzzled as to give the dog catchers the sort of moral support they certainly need in the pursuit of their infamous business. Appearances are against dogs and their depredations are invented and published, a great many sensitive people are terrified and the dog catcher drives a profitable trade. There is no truth in these blood purring tales. There has not been a case of hydrophobia in Chicago this year, and it is a question whether there actually ever has been any.—Chicago News.
